Cultures in Conflict

Visual Prompt: What do artifacts, such as the one shown above, tell you about a culture?

Unit Overview

“Until the lion has a voice, stories of safaris will always glorify the hunter.” To illustrate this African proverb, Chinua Achebe wrote the acclaimed novel Things Fall Apart, in which he provides a powerful voice for the Ibo, a community nearly silenced by European colonialism. In this unit, you will continue your exploration of culture by reading and studying Achebe’s novel. By immersing yourself in the culture and community of the Ibo people, you will analyze a complex community, the institutions that enable it to function, the conflicting roles of its members, and the way in which it is affected by political and social change. Your opinions of the Ibo community’s response to change may be positive, negative, or mixed; however, like millions of others who have read the novel, you may find that the characters and community of Things Fall Apart remain with you long after your study is complete.
GOALS:
• To analyze cultural experiences reflected in a work of literature from outside the United States
• To analyze how complex characters in a novel develop and interact to advance a plot or theme
• To research to answer questions, explore complex ideas, and gather relevant information
• To present findings to an audience clearly and logically, making use of digital media
• To draw evidence from a literary text to support analysis and reflection

LEARNING STRATEGIES:
QHT, Marking the Text, Predicting, Graphic Organizer

Learning Targets
• Preview the unit for the big ideas and new vocabulary.
• Analyze the skills and knowledge required to complete Embedded Assessment 1 successfully.

Making Connections
In this unit, you will continue exploring culture by looking at communities in conflict. Many cultures around the world are in conflict today, with both modern and traditional influences affecting how cultures change. As you read Chinua Achebe’s novel Things Fall Apart, you will closely examine the Ibo culture and the changes it experiences through the eyes of the novelist.

Essential Questions
Based on your current knowledge, respond to the following Essential Questions.
1. How might a culture change when it encounters new ideas and members?

2. How can an author use a fictional character to make a statement about culture?

Developing Vocabulary
3. Mark the Academic Vocabulary and Literary Terms using the QHT strategy. Then in your Reader/Writer Notebook, answer the following question: What strategies will you use to gather knowledge of new terms independently and to develop the ability to use them accurately?

Unpacking Embedded Assessment 1
Read the assignment for Embedded Assessment 1: Researching and Comparing Pre- and Postcolonial Ibo Culture.

Your assignment is to examine one aspect of tribal culture presented in Things Fall Apart, its significance to the Ibo community, and compare and contrast how that cultural aspect changed from precolonial to postcolonial Nigeria. You will create a presentation that reflects your research.

In your own words, summarize what you will need to know to complete this assessment successfully. With your class, create a graphic organizer to represent the skills and knowledge you will need to complete the tasks identified in the Embedded Assessment.
Learning Targets

- Analyze folktales and proverbs to gain insight into the culture of a people.
- Determine an author’s purpose for including proverbs and folktales in a novel.

Preview

In this activity, you will prepare to read the novel Things Fall Apart by analyzing the proverbs and folktales of the Ibo and broader African culture.

Proverbs and Folktales

Proverbs and folktales are one part of a culture’s oral tradition. People share proverbs and folktales in order to express important stories, ideas, and beliefs about their culture.

1. As you read the novel Things Fall Apart, you will encounter many proverbs and folktales that illustrate the beliefs of the Ibo people. One memorable Ibo proverb is “Proverbs are the palm oil with which words are eaten.” Explain what you think this proverb means.

2. In small groups, read and discuss the following proverbs from the novel. Then explain each one in the graphic organizer.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Proverb</th>
<th>Explanation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>If a child washes his hands, he could eat with kings.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When the moon is shining, the cripple becomes hungry for a walk.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Since men have learned to shoot without missing, [the bird] has learned to fly without perching.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The clan was like a lizard. If it lost its tail it soon grew another.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I cannot live on the bank of a river and wash my hands with spittle.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A man who pays respect to the great paves the way for his own greatness.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Check Your Understanding

What general truth believed by the Ibo culture is revealed through the proverb “If one finger brought oil it soiled the others”?
3. In addition to proverbs, you will also encounter a number of folktales in the novel. Use the organizer below to record details about the folktales discussed in class. Then, either copy this organizer or create your own to record details about the folktales you find in Things Fall Apart, especially in Chapters 7, 9, 11, and 15.

Check Your Understanding
- What connections can you make between the proverbs and the folktales?
- How can proverbs and folktales provide insight into a culture?
- How and why might an author use proverbs and folktales in a novel?

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text
Explain how the proverbs and folktales you analyzed in this activity provide insight into the values of the cultures from which they come. Be sure to:
- Begin with a topic sentence summarizing your understanding of how the theme of proverbs and folktales can tell us about a culture’s values.
- Include specific relevant details from the proverbs and folktales that tell you about the culture.
- Cite direct quotations and specific examples from the text. Introduce and punctuate all quotations correctly.
Learning Targets
- Gather, evaluate, and cite sources to answer questions about the historical, cultural, social, and geographical context of the novel.
- Use evidence from research to present findings to the class.

Preview
In this activity, you will conduct and present research that answers questions about the context of the novel Things Fall Apart.

Conducting Internet Research
1. When researching on the Internet, it is important to evaluate the validity and reliability of the information you find. Look at the authority of the information (e.g., was it written by experts?), as well as its objectivity. Refer to the following chart to evaluate Internet sources.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Questions to Evaluate Internet Sources</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>

2. It is also important to avoid plagiarism. As you research, keep good notes about your sources and direct quotations so that you can cite them accurately. Note the URL of each site you view, as you may need to revisit the site to collect further information. Use note cards or a word processing program to record information.

3. With your group, brainstorm a list of possible questions about your assigned topic. Use your questions to guide your group’s research. When conducting research, refer to what you have just learned about evaluating sources and avoiding plagiarism.
Researching Context

Presentations
4. To prepare for your group’s presentation, use note cards to create an annotated outline that includes a thesis statement and key talking points to which you can refer.

5. As you listen to your classmates’ presentations, fill in the following organizer with information about their topics.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Topic</th>
<th>Research Notes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Chinua Achebe</td>
<td></td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>British Colonialism and Nigeria</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Missionary Involvement in Africa</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tribal Life</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Check Your Understanding
- What are some of the key elements of a valid and reliable Internet source?
- How did your research help provide a context for the novel?
- What new predictions can you make based on the class presentations?
- Compare and contrast the class presentations: What made some more engaging, informative, or effective than others?
Learning Targets

• Analyze the cumulative impact of using words and phrases from the Ibo language on the tone and meaning of the novel.
• Learn domain-specific vocabulary to use when speaking and writing about the novel.

Previewing the Novel

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
Chinua Achebe (1930–2013), the son of a Christian minister, was one of Nigeria’s most celebrated novelists. Born an Ibo in Ogidi, Nigeria, in 1930, Achebe was educated in English. Achebe taught English at the university level at colleges in Africa and the United States. His first and best-known novel, Things Fall Apart, was published in 1958. Achebe wrote several novels, short story collections, and books of essays.

1. As you examine the cover and epigraph of Things Fall Apart, what predictions can you make about the novel? Consider the title. To what “things” might Achebe be referring?

2. Copy the following names and pronunciations onto a blank bookmark supplied by your teacher. Things Fall Apart focuses on a culture that may be unfamiliar to you. Even though the novel is written in English, the author uses words and phrases from his native Ibo language. Review the glossary at the back of the novel. Add additional words and definitions to your bookmark as you read. Consider including: chi, ilo, nza, and obi.

4. In your Reader/Writer Notebook, write a reflection on the vocabulary work you have completed today. Why do you think Achebe included these Ibo words and phrases in his novel? What do you think the overall impact is on the novel’s meaning?

Check Your Understanding

From the organizer above choose one aspect of the Ibo culture that you might want to examine further for your research presentation. Write three research questions that would help you to compare and contrast how that cultural aspect changed from precolonial to postcolonial Nigeria.

WORD CONNECTIONS

Roots and Affixes

Gender contains the root gen, from the Greek word genos, meaning “race or class.” This root also appears in engender, generate, and genealogy.
LEARNING STRATEGIES: Graphic Organizer, Double-Entry Journal

Learning Targets
• Analyze how a complex character interacts with other characters.
• Analyze how a complex character’s motivation advances the plot.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapters 1–4
In the following activity, you will read Chapters 1–4 and use a Double-Entry Journal to record details from the text that illustrate Okonkwo’s character.

Comparing and Contrasting Characters
1. As you read, use the organizer below or create one of your own to compare and contrast Okonkwo and his father. Record facts and details about each.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Okonkwo</th>
<th>Both</th>
<th>His Father</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2. Authors use motifs for many reasons in their writing, including establishing themes and moods. Achebe uses the motif of tensions between fathers and sons in his novel. Review the facts and details about Okonkwo and his father that you recorded. How do these similarities and differences create tension between the two? Explain how Okonkwo’s father serves as a foil to his son.

Literary Terms
A motif is a recurring image, symbol, theme, character type, or subject that becomes a unifying element in an artistic work.
A foil is a character whose traits contrast with and therefore highlight the traits of another.
Language and Writer’s Craft: Active and Passive Voice

Sentences can be in active or passive voice. Active voice occurs when the subject of a sentence performs the action, so it emphasizes the person or thing that does the action. For example, in the following sentence, Okonkwo performs the action of throwing: “In the end, Okonkwo threw the Cat.”

Most of the time, you should use the active voice in your writing to enhance clarity and avoid wordiness. In other words, use active voice unless there is a compelling reason to use passive voice.

Passive voice occurs when the subject of the sentence receives the action; passive voice always uses a form of to be with the past participle of the verb. For example, the following sentence uses a form of to be (was) and the past participle of throw (thrown): “The Cat was thrown by Okonkwo.” Only use passive voice when you want to emphasize the receiver of the action, either because the receiver of the action is more important than the doer, or because the person or thing that does the action is unknown.

PRACTICE Identify the sentences below that are in passive voice and rewrite them in active voice.

- Things Fall Apart was written by Chinua Achebe.
- Chinua Achebe included many proverbs in his novel.
- Showing Nigerians in stereotypical ways was avoided by Achebe.

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

Write an explanatory paragraph that answers the question, how is Okonkwo’s character influenced by his complex relationship with his father? Be sure to:

- Include a topic sentence that compares or contrasts the two characters.
- Use specific details and quotations from the novel as support.
- Use active voice.
Independent Practice: Double-Entry Journal

3. Look for examples of Okonkwo's feelings and fears, the reasons for those fears, and the effect they have on his actions. Also look for a motif or foil.

- Include textual evidence from each chapter in the left-hand column.
- Write your personal response or interpretation in the right-hand column.
- As you read Chapters 1–4, continue the chart on a separate sheet of paper.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Feelings and Fears: Passage from the Text</th>
<th>Personal Response or Interpretation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Example: “But his whole life was dominated by fear, the fear of failure and of weakness.” (Ch. 2)</td>
<td>I wonder why Okonkwo is so afraid. How could he be a successful wrestler if he is dominated by fear?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Check Your Understanding

Review the notes in your Double-Entry Journal and respond to the following questions:

- How do Okonkwo's fears influence his actions?
- What are the reasons for his fears?
Character in Conflict

Learning Targets
• Cite textual evidence to support an interpretation.
• Collaborate to present your findings with visual support.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapters 1–4
In this activity, you will revisit Chapters 1–4 and write an argument.

Visual Interpretations
1. With your group, discuss the first four chapters of Things Fall Apart. In those chapters, Achebe presents Okonkwo as a man of high status in his village despite some of his less admirable traits. Fill in the chart below with details from Chapters 1–4 to explore the conflicting sides of Okonkwo’s character.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Okonkwo’s Achievements and Status</th>
<th>Negative Traits and Actions</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>

2. With your group, plan a presentation using digital media that illustrates Okonkwo’s dual nature. You can use a digital drawing tool like Microsoft Paint or assemble clip art in a PowerPoint to create your visual interpretation. Make strategic use of digital media to enhance your interpretation and to add interest to your presentation.

3. Present your visual interpretation to another group. Be sure to:
   • Assign talking points to all members of your group.
   • Make eye contact with your audience when speaking.
   • Refer to specific details in your visual and cite textual evidence.
4. In preparation for completing the Writing to Sources: Argument, work with your group to reflect on the argument stimulus below. Use a Round Table Discussion graphic organizer to take notes from your discussion.

Writing to Sources: Argument

Take a position on the question: Is it common for powerful leaders to have flawed characters? Why? How might this affect the community? Write an argument essay to support your position and explain how it relates to Okonkwo’s character.

Be sure to:
- State your claim in the beginning sentence.
- Use relevant evidence from the text and valid reasoning to support your claim.
- Provide a concluding statement that follows from the claim you have presented.
Learning Targets
- Analyze how a complex character interacts with other characters.
- Write an expository essay to compare and contrast.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapters 5–6
In this activity, you will read Chapters 5–6 and analyze the relationships between characters in the novel.

Characterization
Writers use characterization to create vivid images of characters in the reader’s mind.

1. Compare and contrast how Okonkwo treats his children and his wives in the chapters you have read so far. What do all of his relationships with family members have in common? How are some different from others? Choose a compare/contrast structure, such as a Venn diagram or other graphic organizer that you create.

2. Work with a partner or group to note the names and relationships of the characters. Pay special attention to Okonkwo’s family. Include quotes from the novel to support your ideas. Add rows as needed to the graphic organizer below, or use your Reader/Writer Notebook.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Character</th>
<th>Relationship to Okonkwo and others in the family</th>
<th>What do you learn about the character?</th>
<th>What is your reaction to the character?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
In this unit, you have been comparing and contrasting Achebe’s characterization, and you will write a compare/contrast essay for Embedded Assessment 1. In a compare/contrast essay, the way you organize ideas is an important part of communicating similarities and differences.

Recall that a thesis is a statement of your perspective or assessment of a topic. A compare/contrast thesis, therefore, must introduce your ideas about how the subjects of your essay are similar and different. Many compare/contrast thesis statements begin with words like, although, whereas, even though, or while. These words suggest that a contrast is to follow. Here is an example:

• Although Okonkwo and Unoka both are tall men, Unoka walks with a stoop, suggesting that he is burdened by the expectations of his tribe.

Another way to write a compare/contrast thesis statement is to focus on differences and similarities. For example, consider this thesis:

• A similarity between Okonkwo and Unoka is that both are tall men. Their differences, though, are more pronounced than their similarities.

The organization of your body paragraphs also helps you organize your ideas logically. You may choose to discuss one subject thoroughly in one paragraph and then turn to the other subject in the next paragraph, pointing out its similarities and differences. This structure is a good choice when the first subject is more familiar or provides a lens through which to view the other subject. Alternatively, you may discuss one point of comparison at a time, explaining how the subjects compare on that point before turning to another point of comparison. In this type of organization, each point of comparison is usually discussed in its own paragraph.

PRACTICE Use a graphic organizer such as a Venn diagram as a prewriting tool to help you compare and contrast two of Okonkwo’s family relationships in response to the writing prompt below. Using your graphic organizer, decide if you will use a subject-by-subject or a point-by-point organizational structure. Explain your choice in your Reader/Writer Notebook.

How do Okonkwo’s family relationships make him a sympathetic or an unsympathetic character? Be sure to:
• Write a thesis statement that compares and contrasts at least two relationships and explores their effect on characterization.
• Include supporting details and quotations from the novel.
• Use an effective organizational structure with transition words and phrases.
Learning Targets

- Collaborate to prepare for and participate in a discussion using textual evidence to support analysis.
- Write an analytical response in a formal style and voice.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapters 7–8

In this activity, you will read Chapters 7–8 and prepare for and participate in a Socratic Seminar.

Foreshadowing

1. Consider how Achebe uses foreshadowing in the last two sentences of Chapter 1. Why do you think he tells the reader so early on that Ikemefuna is “doomed” and “ill-fated”?

Preparing for a Socratic Seminar

2. Skim/scan Chapters 7 and 8, taking notes to answer at least one assigned question from the following graphic organizer. Include details and page numbers from the text.
3. Work with your group to create a visual and come up with talking points to present your response to the assigned question.
4. As each group presents its visual and talking points, take notes to complete the graphic organizer.
5. Write two interpretive and two universal questions related to your assigned question to use in a Socratic Seminar.

Socratic Seminar Norms

Socratic Seminar discussions follow the norms of effective discussions, such as:
- Come to discussions prepared by having read material and collected needed evidence.
- Set rules for collegial discussions, making decisions, setting goals, assigning responsibilities, and establishing deadlines.
- Pose and respond to questions to keep discussions moving.
- Challenge and verify ideas while also adjusting conclusions based on evidence.
- Include diverse perspectives; summarize points for clarification and verify reasoning and evidence presented to support it.

Literary Terms

Foreshadowing refers to the use of hints or clues in a narrative to suggest future action.

Language and Writer’s Craft: Academic Voice

Literary analysis is typically written in academic voice, which uses a straightforward, formal style and avoids a conversational tone. Academic writing focuses readers on the ideas as presented in the text, rather than on the personality and voice of the author.

Academic voice uses the third-person point of view as well as formal diction, which avoids the use of slang, contractions, and unnecessary words such as possibly, very, maybe, and really. Academic voice sends a message to readers; it tells them that you take your writing and your readers seriously.

Consider the formal diction in this passage from Things Fall Apart, which helps set a tone of dignity and sorrow:

> As soon as his father walked in, that night, Nwoye knew that Ikemefuna had been killed, and something seemed to give way inside him like the snapping of a tightened bow. He did not cry. He just hung limp. He had had the same feeling not long ago, during the last harvest season.

As a contrast, read this passage from Mark Twain’s 1882 “Advice to Youth.” Twain’s style is informal and conversational, full of the writer’s personality and sense of humor:

> Go to bed early, get up early—this is wise. Some authorities say get up with the sun; some say get up with one thing, others with another. But a lark is really the best thing to get up with. It gives you a splendid reputation with everybody to know that you get up with the lark; and if you get the right kind of lark, and work at him right, you can easily train him to get up at half past nine, every time—it’s no trick at all.

Note that an informal style is well suited to Twain’s purpose, which is to entertain with humor. In the same way, a formal academic voice is suited to the purpose of a literary analysis.

PRACTICE In the table below, compare the differences between formal (academic) and informal style and voice.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Characteristics of Formal Style</th>
<th>Characteristics of Informal Style</th>

Before you begin the following writing prompt, look over your notes, which were probably written in an informal style and voice. When you respond to the prompt, you will want to use a formal style and voice to lend credibility to your academic writing. The description of formal diction above will help you make the necessary changes.
Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

Select one of the questions from the graphic organizer on the previous page as the basis for an analytical response. Be sure to:

• Include a clear thesis statement.
• Provide details and quotations from the text with meaningful commentary.
• Use a formal style and voice.
Learning Targets
• Analyze how the introduction of a new character affects the development of the story.
• Predict, question, and begin to research how colonization might affect an aspect of the Ibo culture.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 9
In this activity, you will read Chapter 9 and analyze how the introduction of the character Ikemefuna affects the development of the story. Then you will prepare for the Embedded Assessment by developing research questions and beginning your annotated bibliography.

Ikemefuna
1. With your group, discuss how the events of Chapter 9 are connected to Ikemefuna’s death in the previous chapter. What conclusions might Okonkwo’s community draw from the juxtaposition of these two events?
2. Consider the character of Ikemefuna. Choose or create an appropriate graphic organizer in which you list details about Ikemefuna. Your organizer may be a chart, a web, or another graphic. Be sure to include details about Ikemefuna’s appearance and actions as well as the attitudes other people have toward him.
3. Discuss with a partner or small group Ikemefuna’s influence on the community. Be sure to discuss not only how he influenced the community but also how specific characters felt about that influence.

Check Your Understanding
Answer the following question in two or three sentences: How do Ikemefuna’s arrival, presence, and death affect the community?

Preparing for Embedded Assessment 1
4. Work in a group to choose a topic from the culture wheel graphic organizer that you completed in Activity 3.4 or from the list below. Write research questions to compare and contrast how that cultural aspect changed from precolonial to postcolonial Nigeria. Note: As you research, you will find “Ibo” can also be spelled “Igbo.”

<table>
<thead>

</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Festivals/Holidays</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Research Questions:

5. After writing research questions, assign a different question to each person in your group. As you research, create note cards to record the information that you will need to cite and evaluate your sources in an annotated bibliography. Include the following:
   • citation: title, author, publisher, source type, date of publication or access
   • information: quotes, paraphrases, and summaries that answer your questions
   • evaluation: validity, reliability, and usefulness of the source

Narrative Writing Prompt

Consider the impact of Ikemefuna’s time in Umuofia. On a separate sheet of paper, write a short narrative from the point of view of either Okonkwo or Nwoye that reveals Ikemefuna’s influence on the community (his arrival, presence, death). Be sure to:
   • Convey the character’s voice and point of view.
   • Include specific details from the novel.
   • Reflect on the impact his character had on the community.

Independent Reading Checkpoint

Review your independent reading. What have you learned and observed about the ways in which colonists changed aspects of native cultures? Review any notes you made. How can you use what you have learned as you research and compare pre- and postcolonial Ibo culture? What comparisons and/or contrasts can you make between the colonization of other cultures and that of the Ibo culture?
Researching and Comparing Pre- and Postcolonial Ibo Culture

ASSIGNMENT
Your assignment is to examine one aspect of tribal culture presented in Things Fall Apart, its significance to the Ibo community, and to compare and contrast how that cultural aspect changed from precolonial to postcolonial Nigeria. You will create a presentation that reflects your research.

Planning: Take time to plan, conduct, and record your research.
- What research questions will help you compare and contrast one aspect of pre- and postcolonial Ibo culture?
- How will you find and incorporate textual evidence of your cultural aspect from the novel Things Fall Apart?
- How will you record your research in an annotated bibliography?

Creating and Rehearsing: Collaborate with your group to create and prepare a presentation with visual support.
- How will you select the most interesting and relevant facts and details to include in your presentation?
- How will you organize your presentation to compare and contrast Ibo culture before and after the colonial period?
- How could you use a presentation tool such as PowerPoint or Prezi to incorporate audio and visual components into your presentation?
- How will you choose relevant images and write appropriate captions to engage your audience?
- How will you divide the speaking responsibilities and transition between speakers?
- How will you use the scoring guide to revise and provide feedback on your own and others’ presentations as you rehearse?

Presenting and Listening: Rehearse to deliver a smooth presentation; prepare to listen and respond to other presentations.
- What are the effective speaking and listening techniques you will need to use to engage your audience?
- During your peers’ presentations, how will you organize your notes on the subject of each presentation?

Reflection
As you read the rest of Things Fall Apart, consider the following:
- What generalizations can you make about the impact of colonialism on native cultures?
- Which aspects of Ibo culture do you think were negatively affected by colonialism? Positively?

Previewing Embedded Assessment 2 and Creating a Tableau

Learning Targets
- Identify and analyze the knowledge and skills needed to complete Embedded Assessment 2 successfully.
- Reflect on concepts, Essential Questions, and vocabulary.
- Analyze the roles and relationships of characters.

Making Connections
In the first part of this unit, you have been reading the novel Things Fall Apart and analyzing how a writer develops a story and its characters. In this last half of the unit, you will continue reading the novel and will also read informational texts to help you set the context for the novel and learn more about its author in preparation for writing a literary analysis essay.

Essential Questions
Based on your understanding from the first part of the unit, how would you answer the Essential Questions now?
1. How might a culture change when it encounters new ideas and members?
2. How can an author use a fictional character to make a statement about culture?

Developing Vocabulary
Think about the Academic Vocabulary and Literary Terms you have studied so far in this unit. Which words or terms can you now move to a new category on a QHT chart? Which could you now teach to others that you were unfamiliar with at the beginning of the unit?

Unpacking Embedded Assessment 2
Read the assignment for Embedded Assessment 2: Writing a Literary Analysis of a Novel.

Your assignment is to write an analytical essay about Things Fall Apart in which you examine a character’s response to the cultural collision caused by the introduction of Western ideas into Ibo culture. In your essay, analyze how the collision challenges the character’s sense of identity and explain how his response shapes the meaning of the work as a whole.

In your own words, summarize what you will need to know to complete this assessment successfully. With your class, create a graphic organizer to represent the skills and knowledge you will need to complete the tasks identified in the Embedded Assessment.
Reflecting on Character Relationships
3. Use the following graphic organizer to begin Okonkwo’s family tree. Write in the names of three of his relatives, adding details about each.

OKONKWO

4. Meet with a small group to compare notes. Add additional boxes and details to represent other relatives explored by your group.

Creating an Ibo Tableau
5. Work with your group members to create a tableau (a freeze-frame snapshot) of characters from Things Fall Apart.
   • Begin by writing the name of each character on its own index card and giving each group member a character card.
   • Review the basic facts about your character. Write a short statement that your character will give. The statement should begin with “I am …”; then state your character’s name and reveal an interesting fact about that character. Just as the characters’ positions in the tableau will explain their relationships with one another, try to let the lines you write and the way you deliver them reveal your character’s attitude and personality.
   • Work with your group to decide where each character should stand, how he or she should pose, and where he or she should be positioned in relation to others. Be prepared to present your tableau to the class. You and fellow characters should strike the pose and then step out of the freeze-frame one at a time to deliver your lines.

Check Your Understanding
What aspects of Ibo culture are highlighted in your family tree and tableau?
Ibo Norms and Values

Learning Targets
- Cite textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly and draw inferences from the text.
- Read closely to gather evidence from a text about the norms and values of a culture.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 10
In this activity, you will read Chapter 10 and gather evidence from the text about the norms and values of the Ibo culture.

Norms and Values of the Ibo Culture
1. After you complete a close read of Chapter 10, think about the norms and values of the Ibo culture that are illustrated in the text. Remember that the term norms refer to the attitudes and behaviors that are considered normal or typical to a group of people. For instance, think about the discussion norms that were established in your classroom during Unit 1. With your group, revisit Chapters 1–10 and use the following table to record the norms and values that you find evidence for in the text. What is important to the Ibo civilization and how does Achebe show this to the readers of the novel?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Norms and Values of the Ibo</th>
<th>Textual Evidence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LEARNING STRATEGIES:
Drafting, Graphic Organizer, Marking the Text

WORD CONNECTIONS

Multiple-Meaning Words
The root word of civilization is civil. Civil can mean “polite” or “courteous”; it also refers to anything relating to citizens or to ordinary community life.
2. Work with a partner to compose several universal questions on the topic of the norms and values of the Ibo culture. Write the following questions. Use them to explore the concept of cultural norms and values in your discussion group.

Language and Writer’s Craft: Using Precise Language and Domain-Specific Vocabulary

When describing another culture, it is especially important to use precise language to avoid generalizing, stereotyping, or unintentionally offending your reader.

For example, consider this sentence about the Ibo people:

They honor their elders in a way that we do not.

Framing the Ibo as they and the culture of the writer as we is a generalization that makes the Ibo seem different or “other.”

Here is a better way to write the sentence, replacing the imprecise pronouns they and we with specific references to the culture or ethnic group under discussion:

The Ibo people honor their elders in a way that may seem unusual to Americans.

Another way to make your writing stronger is to use domain-specific vocabulary to describe the subject. Domain-specific vocabulary words are terms associated with a narrow topic or field, rather than general terms you might see more often.

Think about how you could make the following sentence more precise using domain-specific vocabulary:

When Okonkwo visits the clan elder at home, he brings offerings of food and drink to show his respect.

For example, you could revise the sentence this way:

When Okonkwo visits the clan elder in his obi, he brings offerings of kola nut and palm wine to show his respect.

The words obi, kola nut, and palm wine refer to specific aspects of Ibo culture.
PRACTICE Use precise language and domain-specific vocabulary to improve the following sentences:

The case of Uzowulu is decided in a manner similar to a trial you might see in our country, including a decision made by a jury. After the trial, Uzowulu is told to bring a gift to his wife’s parents and ask his wife to come back to him.

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

From your notes, write a paragraph to explain the values and norms of the Ibo culture. Be sure to:

- Include a well-stated topic sentence.
- Include the best details and textual evidence that highlight the values and norms of Ibo culture and use precise or domain-specific vocabulary when possible.
- Use a logical organizational structure and employ transitions effectively to move from one key point to the next.

After you write your paragraph, share it with a discussion group.

Check Your Understanding

Summarize why you should use precise language to speak and write about cultures.
RAFTing with Chielo

Learning Targets
• Analyze how complex characters react to events in a plot.
• Write a narrative to explore a character’s voice.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 11–12
In this activity, you will read Chapters 11–12 and use the RAFT strategy to create a narrative in the voice of a character from the novel.

Revisiting Folktales in Chapter 11
1. Go back to the graphic organizer that you used to analyze folktales in Activity 3.2. Re-create it in your Reader/Writer Notebook and add notes analyzing Ekwefi’s story about the Tortoise at the beginning of Chapter 11. What do you think is the purpose of this folktale in Ibo culture: What moral or lesson does it teach?

2. What do you think is Achebe's purpose in including this story in the novel?

Making Inferences in Chapter 12
3. As you reread the first three pages of Chapter 12, take notes in the following space to record textual evidence showing how Okonkwo, Ekwefi, and Ezinma are acting in response to the events of the previous evening. What inferences can you make from their thoughts, words, and actions?

INDEPENDENT READING LINK
Read and Connect
Choose two or three characters and a chunk of reading from one of your independent reading texts. Take notes to record how the characters act in response to an important event. How are their responses similar and different? Share your observations with a group.
Introducing the Strategy: RAFT

RAFT stands for role, audience, format, and topic. Using this strategy, a writer can create a new text by brainstorming various roles (e.g., self, characters from other texts), audiences (e.g., a different character, a real person), formats (e.g., letter, brochure, essay, travel guide), and topics. Writers may choose a new role, audience, format, and/or topic to create a new text.

Using the RAFT Strategy

4. Discuss your evidence and inferences in a small group. Have each group member choose the role of a different character and use the RAFT strategy to write about Chielo’s abduction of Ezinma in Chapter 11. While in the role, each group member should write what his or her character is thinking, using the pronoun “I,” from the time Chielo, as Priestess of Agbala, comes for Ezinma until the end of the chapter. (The character’s thoughts serve as the topic.)

Role: Okonkwo, Ekwefi, or Ezinma

Audience: Another character, self, a god

Format: Letter, monologue, diary entry, song, prayer

Topic: Character’s reaction to the events of Chapter 11

Remember to:
- Write in the first person (I, my).
- Use diction, imagery, syntax, and tone to convey the character’s voice.
- Include specific details from the chapter.

Check Your Understanding

As each member of your group shares his or her writing through oral reading, consider how the voices of each character are similar and different. What elements of voice (diction, imagery, syntax, or tone) are distinct to each character?
Learning Targets
• Analyze how a theme is developed over the course of a novel.
• Write about Okonkwo’s violent tendencies and their consequences.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 13
In this activity, you will revisit Chapters 1–13 and consider Okonkwo’s actions and how they develop the theme of Part 1.

Revisiting Part 1: Okonkwo’s Actions and Their Consequences
1. While at public gatherings, observances of rites, or festivals, Okonkwo often commits acts of violence that ruin the occasion and generate public disapproval. Review Part 1 and complete the following graphic organizer to identify Okonkwo’s violent acts and their consequences.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Violent Acts</th>
<th>Consequences</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

2. Work with your class to construct a statement on the theme of Okonkwo’s violent tendencies and their consequences.

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text
From your notes, write an essay to explain how Okonkwo’s acts of violence throughout the course of the novel advance the plot or develop the theme. Be sure to:
• Include an introduction with a clear thesis statement.
• Provide supporting details and textual evidence from different chapters.
• Write a conclusion that explains the significance of the topic.

Check Your Understanding
Gender Views

Learning Targets
• Analyze cultural views of gender reflected in the novel.
• Make connections among different cultures’ ideas about gender.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 14
In this activity, you will revisit Chapters 1–13 to analyze how the Ibo culture views gender and then continue to find evidence in Chapter 14 to prepare for a group discussion.

Revisiting Part 1: Gender Views
In your reading of Things Fall Apart, you may have noticed that the characters have clear ideas about how men and women should act or be. For example, in Chapter 2, Okonkwo expresses a fear of appearing to be feminine, a characteristic he equates with weakness and ineffectualness.

1. Use the following chart to record textual evidence of what it means to be a man or woman in the Ibo culture. In the second column, respond to the examples you find. Use additional paper as needed.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Quote</th>
<th>My Comments</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>“Even as a little boy he [Okonkwo] had resented his father’s failure and weakness, and even now he still remembered how he had suffered when a playmate had told him that his father was agbala. That was how Okonkwo first came to know that agbala was not only another name for a woman, it could also mean a man who had taken no title.” (Chapter 2, p. 13)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WORD CONNECTIONS
Roots and Affixes
Resented contains the root sent, from the Latin word sentire, meaning “to feel.” This root also appears in sentimental, consent, and dissent. The prefix re- means “back” or “again.” The suffix -ed indicates that the word is a verb in the past tense.
Gender Views in Chapter 14

2. As you reread Chapter 14, look for textual evidence that presents a different view of gender now that Okonkwo has been exiled to live with his mother’s kinsmen for seven years.

<table>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Group Discussion on Gender Views

3. Prepare to discuss the following questions with a small group by highlighting textual evidence from each chart to support your responses.

- How and why do the views of gender shift from Part 1 of the novel to the first chapter of Part 2?
- How do you feel about the attitudes toward gender that are expressed in the novel? Do you agree or disagree with them?

Check Your Understanding

How are the ideas of gender expressed in the novel similar to and different from those in your own culture?
Learning Targets
• Understand and apply the concept of a tragic hero to Okonkwo.
• Write to explain the degree to which Okonkwo is a tragic hero.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 15
In this activity, you will reread Chapters 1–15 and apply Aristotle’s definition of a tragic hero to Okonkwo.

Tragic Hero
1. A hero is not always a tragic hero. Read Aristotle’s classical definition of a tragic hero, analyzed in the first column of the following table. Then complete the chart by providing examples from Okonkwo’s life as well as the lives of other characters from literature or film.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Aristotle’s Definition of a Tragic Hero</th>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>He has a large capacity for suffering.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>His downfall is often preceded by self-realization.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Literary Terms
A tragic hero is a central character who is usually of high or noble birth and demonstrates a “fatal flaw.” The tragic hero’s fatal flaw is hamartia, an ingrained character trait that causes the hero to make decisions leading to his or her death or downfall.
A Tragic Hero?

Language and Writer’s Craft: Word Patterns

Many words follow specific patterns as they change from one part of speech to another. It is important to use the correct form to make sure your writing is clear and correct. Consider these examples:

Verb: analyze
Noun: analysis
Adjective: analytical

Verb: beautify
Noun: beauty
Adjective: beautiful

Some words do not change form when they are used as different parts of speech. For example:

Noun: address (a residence, a speech)
Verb: address (speak to)

Noun: challenge (a dare or invitation to a contest)
Verb: challenge (defy or issue a call to a contest)

PRACTICE Using the verbs define, advocate, indicate, and equate, form a noun or an adjective for each one.

Check Your Understanding

Look at the following word pairs and decide which is the noun and which is the adjective.

angry, anger  misery, miserable  natural, nature

strong, strength  easy, ease  zeal, zealous

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

To what degree does Okonkwo fit Aristotle’s definition of a tragic hero? What flaws lead to his downfall? Be sure to:

• Include an introduction that defines a tragic hero.
• Provide supporting details and textual evidence from different chapters.
• Make sure to use the correct forms of nouns, verbs, and adjectives in your writing.
Colliding Cultures

Learning Targets

• Analyze how key plot events develop a theme related to cultural conflict.
• Cite thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly and to draw evidence from the text.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapters 16–19

In this activity, you will read Chapters 16–19 and analyze the beginning of the cultural conflict between the Ibo and the Westerners who are newly arrived.

Predicting Cultural Conflicts

1. In Chapter 15, Uchendu says, “The world has no end, and what is good among one people is an abomination with others.”

Part 2 of Things Fall Apart introduces the cultural conflict when white men come into contact with the Ibo. Predict what aspects of each culture might appear as an “abomination” to the other.

Key Events in Chapters 15–19

2. Chapters 15–19 span six years in the life of Okonkwo and his village. Record key events and explain their significance on the following chart.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Key Events of Chapter</th>
<th>Why Events Are Important</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

Socratic Seminar

3. Work with a partner to select three to five key events. List them in the following space. For each event, write an interpretive or universal question that will help you explore the conflicting cultures in Part 2 of Things Fall Apart. You will use these questions as you participate in a Socratic Seminar.

Event 1:

Event 2:

Event 3:

Event 4:

Event 5:

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

After you participate in a Socratic Seminar about cultural conflict in Things Fall Apart, choose one of the events discussed and explore its significance in a timed response. Be sure to:

- Discuss how the event develops a theme related to cultural conflict.
- Use precise vocabulary and an academic voice.
- Cite textual evidence to support your interpretation.
Cultural Misunderstandings

Learning Targets
• Analyze how different characters and conflicts advance the plot.
• Make connections to the cultural misunderstandings in the novel.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapters 20–22
In this activity, you will read Chapters 20–22 and make connections to the cultural misunderstandings between the Ibo and the missionaries in the novel.

Things Fall Apart
1. Read the following excerpt from Chapter 20 of Things Fall Apart. Underline or highlight statements that illuminate the misunderstandings between the Ibo and the missionaries.

   Does the white man understand our customs about land?

   How can he when he does not even speak our tongue? But he says that our customs are bad; and our own brothers who have taken up his religion also say that our customs are bad. How do you think we can fight when our own brothers have turned against us? The white man is very clever. He came quietly and peaceably with his religion. We were amused at his foolishness and allowed him to stay. Now he has won our brothers, and our clan can no longer act like one. He has put a knife on the things that held us together and we have fallen apart.

2. With a partner, choose one of the statements and decide whether or not Obierika’s assessment of the situation is accurate. Find textual evidence from the novel to support or refute the statement.

Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith
3. Use the following chart to compare and contrast the two missionaries, Mr. Brown and Mr. Smith. Record what each says and does, along with their attitudes and beliefs. Continue on a separate page if needed.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Mr. Brown</th>
<th>Mr. Smith</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Cultural Misunderstandings

4. Work with group members to consider why someone from another culture might think the practices or beliefs listed in the following chart are strange. Add at least one more cultural aspect to the organizer along with your response.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Cultural Practice or Belief</th>
<th>Why Someone from Another Culture Might Find the Practice or Belief Strange</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>In the novel The Poisonwood Bible, an African man comes to America and is shocked to find out that Americans use the bathroom in their house and not outside, away from the home.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Many Americans adorn their bodies with different types of tattoos and piercing.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

5. Identify Ibo beliefs and practices in Things Fall Apart that differ from those of modern Americans. Contrast them in the following chart.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ibo Belief or Practice</th>
<th>Modern American Belief or Practice</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Twins are considered evil and abandoned in the Evil Forest.</td>
<td>Twins are usually welcomed and cared for by their families.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Check Your Understanding

- Can one culture be “right” and another culture “wrong”? Explain.
- How did the two missionaries respond differently to cultural misunderstandings?
Poetic Connections

Learning Targets
• Conduct a comparative analysis between texts with similar themes.
• Present an oral interpretation of a poem.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 22
1. Reread the following excerpt from Chapter 22 of Things Fall Apart in which the clan responds to Enoch tearing the mask from an egwugwu. Underline words that have strong negative connotations.
   What tone is conveyed in this passage? Why do Enoch’s actions so horrify the people of Umuofia?

   The other egwugwu immediately surrounded their desecrated companion to shield him from the profane gaze of women and children, and led him away. Enoch had killed an ancestral spirit, and Umuofia was thrown into confusion.

   That night the Mother of the Spirits walked the length and breadth of the clan, weeping for her murdered son. It was a terrible night. Not even the oldest man in Umuofia had ever heard such a strange and fearful sound, and it was never to be heard again. It seemed as if the very soul of the tribe wept for a great evil that was coming—its own death.

In this activity, you will work with a group to analyze a poem and present a choral reading that conveys your interpretation of its meaning.

Setting a Purpose for Reading
• Work with your group to read and analyze one of the poems on the following pages. Consider the following:
  1. What connections can you make between the poem and the novel?
  2. What is the tone of the poem, and how is it conveyed?
  3. What is the topic and theme of the poem?

• Circle unknown words and phrases. Try to determine the meaning of the words by using context clues, word part, or a dictionary.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
Léopold Senghor (1906–2001) was an influential poet, teacher, and politician. Educated in Senegal, a French colony at the time of his birth, and France, Senghor became one of the first black teachers in the French educational system. He cofounded the literary movement Negritude, which validated the artistic expressions of black Africans. He served for more than 20 years as Senegal’s first freely elected president.

Poetry

Prayer to the Masks

by Léopold Sédar Senghor

Masks! Masks!
Black mask red mask, you white-and-black masks
Masks of the four points from which the spirit blows
In silence I salute you!

Nor you the least, the Lion-headed Ancestor
You guard this place forbidden to all laughter of women, to all smiles that fade
You distill this air of eternity in which I breathe the air of my Fathers.
Masks of unmasked faces, stripped of the marks of illness and the lines of age
You who have fashioned this portrait, this my face bent over the altar of white paper

In your own image, hear me!
The Africa of the empires is dying, see, the agony of a pitiful princess
And Europe too where we are joined by the navel.
Fix your unchanging eyes upon your children, who are given orders
Who give away their lives like the poor their last clothes.

Let us report present at the rebirth of the World
Like the yeast which white flour needs.
For who would teach rhythm to a dead world of machines and guns?
Who would give the cry of joy to wake the dead and the bereaved at dawn?
Say, who would give back the memory of life to the man whose hopes are smashed?

They call us men of coffee cotton oil
They call us men of death.
We are the men of the dance, whose feet draw new strength pounding the hardened earth.

My Notes

distill: purify

fashioned: created or shaped

image: visual representation

bereaved: people who have suffered the death of a loved one
Second Read

• Reread the poem to answer these text-dependent questions.
• Write any additional questions you have about the text in your Reader/Writer Notebook.

1. Key Ideas and Details: What ideas do the masks represent in the poem? Why do you think the speaker greets the masks in silence?

2. Key Ideas and Details: What is the central idea of the poem? What details does the speaker use to help readers understand this central idea? What details convey the future role that Africa can play?

3. Craft and Structure: What does the speaker of the poem mean by describing Africa as “the yeast which white flour needs”? How does this point of view contrast with the point of view expressed in Things Fall Apart—that, in the contact between cultures, a knife has been “put on the things that held us together and we have fallen apart”?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR
Winner of the 1923 Nobel Prize for Literature, William Butler Yeats (1865–1939) produced some of the most enduring poems written in English in the twentieth century. Despite living in Ireland during decades of great political and religious upheaval, Yeats’s poems are marked by a deep mysticism, specific symbolism, and universal emotions.

The Second Coming

by William Butler Yeats

Turning and turning in the widening gyre
The falcon cannot hear the falconer;
Things fall apart; the center cannot hold;
Mere anarchy is loosed upon the world,
5
The blood-dimmed tide is loosed, and everywhere
The ceremony of innocence is drowned;
The best lack all conviction, while the worst
Are full of passionate intensity.
Surely some revelation is at hand;
10
Surely the Second Coming is at hand;
The Second Coming! Hardly are those words out
When a vast image out of Spiritus Mundi
Troubles my sight: somewhere in sands of the desert
A shape with lion body and the head of a man,
15
A gaze blank and pitiless as the sun,
Is moving its slow thighs, while all about it
Reel shadows of the indignant desert birds.
The darkness drops again; but now I know
That twenty centuries of stony sleep

20
Were vexed to nightmare by a rocking cradle,
And what rough beast, its hour come round at last,
Slouches towards Bethlehem to be born?

1 Spiritus Mundi, Latin for “world spirit,” a collective, universal soul that contains the memories of all time and inspires poets.

WORD CONNECTIONS
Roots and Affixes
Anarchy contains the root arch, from the Greek word archos, meaning “leader.” This root also appears in architect, patriarch, archangel, and monarchy. The prefix an- means “not” or “without.”

gyre: spiral that expands as it goes up

mere: absolute anarchy: lawlessness tide: water-like ebb or flow of something

intensity: extreme feeling

image: mental picture

My Notes

vexed: agitated or troubled

Second Read

• Reread the poem to answer these text-dependent questions.
• Write any additional questions you have about the text in your Reader/Writer Notebook.

4. Craft and Structure: What images and words does Yeats use to describe the anarchy that has overrun the world? Why do you think the poet chose this language to describe the anarchy? What is the overall effect of these choices?

5. Craft and Structure: An allusion is a reference to a well-known person, event, or place in history, music, art, or another literary work. The term The Second Coming is a biblical allusion to the return of Christ from Heaven as described in the New Testament. In lines 11–17 of the poem, what other allusion does Yeats use? Why do you think he uses it?

6. Key Ideas and Details: How is the final image of the beast slouching toward Bethlehem to be born linked to the poem’s opening image of the circling falcon unable to hear the falconer?

Working from the Text

7. Work with your group to prepare and present a choral reading and analysis of your poem to a group that worked on the other poem.
   As you listen to the other group’s presentation, take notes to compare and contrast the two poems. Which side of the cultural conflict is represented by each poem? What do they have in common?
   Why did the author choose Things Fall Apart as a title?

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

Refer to your notes to write an essay that makes connections between the poems and the novel Things Fall Apart. What similarities in theme or central idea did you notice?
• Include quotes or specific details from the poems and the novel to support your claims.
• Explain how specific words in the poems and the novel relate to each other and show the similarity between themes.
• Use a coherent organizational structure and employ transitions effectively to highlight similarities and difference.
ACTIVITY 3.19

A Letter to the District Commissioner

LEARNING STRATEGIES: Discussion Groups, Drafting

Learning Targets
- Analyze the use of irony in the novel.
- Write to explain the negative effects of cultural misunderstanding.

Reading Things Fall Apart, Chapter 23–25

In this activity, you will read Chapters 23–25 and analyze the author’s use of irony.

Irony

1. Consider the following three summarized events from the novel. What kind of irony does each represent? Explain.

Event 1: At the end of Chapter 15, Okonkwo tells his good friend Obierka that he doesn’t know how to thank him enough for tending his yam crop while Okonkwo is in exile. Obierka tells Okonkwo to kill himself.

Event 2: Okonkwo’s greatest fear is that he will appear weak and feminine. He appears to have little respect for women. Yet his favorite child, the one with whom he has the closest bond and understanding, is his daughter Ezinma.

Event 3: In Chapter 7, when Ikemefuna thinks he is journeying with the clansmen to the home of his birth, he is worried about whether his mother is alive, but otherwise feels safe. The reader knows that he is actually about to be killed.

2. With a partner, review Chapters 23–25, looking for textual evidence of different kinds of irony. List and explain at least two examples:

   Example 1:

   Example 2:

Literary Terms

Irony is a literary device that exploits a reader’s expectations. Irony occurs when what is expected turns out to be quite different from what actually happens. Dramatic irony occurs when the reader or audience knows more about the circumstances or future events in a story than the characters within it. Verbal irony occurs when a speaker or narrator says one thing while meaning the opposite. Situational irony occurs when an event contradicts the expectations of the characters or the reader.
Setting a Purpose for Reading

3. Reread the following two excerpts. Mark the text to show evidence of the District Commissioner’s attitude toward the Ibo.

Excerpt from Chapter 23

“We shall not do you any harm,” said the District Commissioner to them later, “if only you agree to cooperate with us. We have brought a peaceful administration to you and your people so that you may be happy. If any man ill-treats you, we shall come to your rescue. But we will not allow you to ill-treat others. We have a court of law where we judge cases and administer justice just as it is done in my own country under a great queen. I have brought you here because you joined together to molest others, to burn people’s houses and their place of worship. That must not happen in the dominion of our queen, the most powerful ruler in the world. I have decided that you will pay a fine of two hundred bags of cowries. You will be released as soon as you agree to this and undertake to collect that fine from your people. What do you say to that?”

Excerpt from Chapter 25

In the many years in which he had toiled to bring civilization to different parts of Africa he had learned a number of things. One of them was that a District Commissioner must never attend to such undignified details as cutting a hanged man from the tree. Such attention would give the natives a poor opinion of him. In the book which he planned to write he would stress that point. As he walked back to the court he thought about that book. Every day brought him some new material. The story of this man who had killed a messenger and hanged himself would make interesting reading. One could almost write a whole chapter on him. Perhaps not a whole chapter but a reasonable paragraph, at any rate. There was so much else to include, and one must be firm in cutting out details. He had already chosen the title of the book, after much thought: The Pacification of the Primitive Tribes of the Lower Niger.

Working from the Text

4. Discuss the types of irony used in the excerpts above. What do you think the author was trying to emphasize with his use of irony?

Explanatory Writing Prompt

Write a letter to the District Commissioner explaining how his attitude toward the Ibo people is based on cultural misunderstanding. Suggest ways he might change to be more accommodating to the culture of the people. Be sure to:

- State your purpose for writing in the first sentence.
- Provide textual evidence of the District Commissioner’s misunderstanding.
- Use an appropriate voice and tone that show respect for the Commissioner, yet asks for change.
 LC 3.19 Language Checkpoint: Using Noun Agreement

Learning Targets
- Understand how to create noun agreement in sentences.
- Revise writing to create noun agreement.

Using Noun Agreement

Writers have to pay attention to a few types of agreement to ensure that they are communicating their ideas clearly. For example, pronouns need to agree in number and gender with the nouns they are replacing, and present-tense verbs must agree with their subjects. In some sentences, nouns have to agree with other nouns for the sentence to make sense. Look at the example from Things Fall Apart by Chinua Achebe:

> The Commissioner and his men followed, their firearms held at the ready. He had warned Obierika that if he and his men played any monkey tricks they would be shot.

In these sentences, the narrator refers to the Commissioner and his men, each of whom has a gun. Since the subject the Commissioner and his men is plural, the phrase their firearms is also plural. In other words, the nouns agree in number. In longer, more complex sentences where the nouns are far apart, it is especially important to pay attention to nouns to make sure they agree when necessary.

1. Look at the following sentences, and identify the nouns that do not agree in number. How would you revise each sentence so that the nouns agree?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Noun Agreement</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Before Revision</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr. Brown believed all of the people he encountered deserved to become a follower of his teachings.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All of the men in the obi had presented Ibe with a horn to fill with the palm drink.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Both her parents, who had hoped she would find a husband worthy of her beauty, shook their head in disbelief when she rejected the suitor.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chinua Achebe and Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie both became well-known by worldwide audiences as a Nigerian novelist.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2. Discuss your revisions with a partner. How did you decide which nouns needed to change?
Revising

Read the following student letter, paying close attention to singular and plural nouns. Annotate the paragraph to show how you would revise it to ensure noun agreement.

Dear District Commissioner,

While I understand your goals of bringing Christianity and a unified government to the peoples of the Niger, this is not a goal you should be pursuing. You may be misunderstanding some key aspects of the Ibo culture. The Ibo people are both civilized and thoughtful, a quality that you seem to overlook. They are not weak people, nor are they savages. Okonkwo and his clan, like Obeirika and Okika, are tribesmen who believe they must use their knowledge and skills as a warrior to protect the tribe, even if it means going against their brothers. They do so as protection. You told them you “have brought a peaceful administration” to their people in order that they “may be happy.” However, soldiers pointing a gun at their head is not peaceful.

Your violence brought unhappiness, division, and fear to the people living here. Perhaps if you had looked upon them with openness and approached them with kindness, a strategy that you and your men never seem to employ, you would see they have a deep understanding of the land around them. The many rules that they follow, all of which have foundations in their understanding of life in the region, were created for a specific reason and help bring order to their society.

All of the people in this region should let their opinion be heard. The people here have the right to become a participant in their future, not just a passive observer of the changes you are trying to impose. I hope you and your men, many of whom have a sincere interest in making life better for people here, will open your mind to these ideas.

With kind regards,

Mariana Okri

Check Your Understanding

Imagine you were helping the writer of the preceding letter to understand noun agreement. How would you help her identify sentences where nouns need to agree? How would you explain the revisions needed to create noun agreement?

Add an item to your Editor’s Checklist reminding yourself to check your writing for noun agreement.

Practice

Reread the letter to the District Commissioner you wrote in Activity 3.19 explaining the misunderstanding with the Ibo people. You have already had to consider tone and voice. Now revise the letter by checking for noun agreement. Be sure to:

- Verify that corresponding nouns match in number when required.
- Look for words such as all, each, and both to make sure that the related nouns agree in number.
LEARNING STRATEGIES:
- Discussion Groups,
- Metacognitive Markers,
- Note-taking

My Notes

Learning Targets
- Make connections between the author’s life and literary work.
- Analyze Achebe’s purpose for writing the novel.

Preview
In the following activity, you will read and analyze an interview with Chinua Achebe to determine the author’s purpose for writing the novel.

Setting a Purpose for Reading
- As you read the interview, use metacognitive markers as follows to mark the text:
  - ! something that surprises you
  - * something you can comment on: an opinion or connection
  - ? something you have a question about or do not understand
- Circle unknown words and phrases. Try to determine the meaning of the words by using context clues, word part, or a dictionary.

Interview

Chinua Achebe, the author of one of the enduring works of modern African literature, sees postcolonial cultures taking shape story by story.

by Katie Bacon

Chunk 1
Chinua Achebe’s emergence as “the founding father of African literature … in the English language,” in the words of the Harvard University philosopher K. Anthony Appiah, could very well be traced to his encounter in the early fifties with Joyce Cary’s novel Mister Johnson, set in Achebe’s native Nigeria. Achebe read it while studying at the University College in Idaban during the last years of British colonial rule, and in a curriculum full of Shakespeare, Coleridge, and Wordsworth, Mister Johnson stood out as one of the few books about Africa. Time magazine had recently declared Mister Johnson the “best book ever written about Africa,” but Achebe and his classmates had quite a different reaction. The students saw the Nigerian hero as an “embarrassing nitwit.” Mister Johnson, Achebe writes, “open[ed] my eyes to the fact that my home was under attack and that my home was not merely a house or a town but, more importantly, an awakening story.”
2. In 1958, Achebe responded with his own novel about Nigeria, Things Fall Apart, which was one of the first books to tell the story of European colonization from an African perspective. (It has since become a classic, published in fifty languages around the world.) Things Fall Apart marked a turning point for African authors, who in the fifties and sixties began to take back the narrative of the so-called "dark continent."

3. Achebe depicts his gradual realization that Mister Johnson was just one in a long line of books written by Westerners that presented Africans to the world in a way that Africans didn't agree with or recognize, and he examines the "process of 're-storying' peoples who had been knocked silent by all kinds of dispossession." He ends with a hope for the twenty-first century—that this "re-storying" will continue and will eventually result in a "balance of stories among the world's peoples."

4. Achebe encourages writers from the Third World to stay where they are and write about their own countries, as a way to help achieve this balance. Yet he himself has lived in the United States for the past ten years—a reluctant exile. In 1990, Achebe was in a car accident in Nigeria, and was paralyzed from the waist down. While recuperating in a London hospital, he received a call from Leon Botstein, the president of Bard College, offering him a teaching job and a house built for his needs. Achebe thought he would be at Bard, a small school in a quiet corner of the Hudson River Valley, for only a year or two, but the political situation in Nigeria kept worsening. During the military dictatorship of General Sani Abacha, who ruled from 1993 to 1998, much of Nigeria's wealth—the country has extensive oil fields—went into the pocket of its leader, and public infrastructure that had been quite good, like hospitals and roads, withered. In 1999, Olusegan Obasanjo became Nigeria's first democratically elected President since 1983, and the situation in Nigeria is improving, albeit slowly and shakily. Achebe is watching from afar, waiting for his country to rebuild itself enough for him to return.

5. Achebe, who is sixty-nine, has written five novels, including Arrow of God (1964) and Anthills of the Savannah (1987), five books of nonfiction, and several collections of short stories and poems. Achebe spoke recently with Atlantic Unbound's Katie Bacon at his home in Annandale-on-Hudson, in New York.

QUESTION 1

Chunk 2

6. You have been called the progenitor of the modern African novel, and Things Fall Apart has maintained its resonance in the decades since it was written. Have you been surprised by the effect the book has had?

7. Was I surprised? Yes, at the beginning. There was no African literature as we know it today. And so I had no idea when I was writing Things Fall Apart whether it would even be accepted or published. All of this was new—there was nothing by which I could gauge how it was going to be received.

8. But, of course, something doesn't continue to surprise you every day. After a while I began to understand why the book had resonance. I began to understand my history even better. It wasn't as if when I wrote it I was an expert in the history of the world. I was a very young man. I knew I had a story, but how it fit into the story of the world—I really had no sense of that. Its meaning for my Igbo people was clear to me, but I didn't know how other people elsewhere would respond to it. Did it have... any meaning or resonance for them? I realized that it did when, to give you just one example, the whole class of a girls’ college in South Korea wrote to me, and each one expressed an opinion about the book. And then I learned something, which was that they had a history that was similar to the story of Things Fall Apart—the history of colonization. This I didn’t know before. Their colonizer was Japan. So these people across the waters were able to relate to the story of dispossession in Africa. People from different parts of the world can respond to the same story, if it says something to them about their own history and their own experience.

9 It seems that people from places that haven’t experienced colonization in the same way have also responded to the story.

10 There are different forms of dispossession, many, many ways in which people are deprived or subjected to all kinds of victimization—it doesn’t have to be colonization. Once you allow yourself to identify with the people in a story, then you might begin to see yourself in that story even if on the surface it’s far removed from your situation. This is what I try to tell my students: this is one great thing that literature can do—it can make us identify with situations and people far away. If it does that, it’s a miracle. I tell my students, it’s not difficult to identify with somebody like yourself, somebody next door who looks like you. What’s more difficult is to identify with someone you don’t see, who’s very far away, who’s a different color, who eats a different kind of food. When you begin to do that then literature is really performing its wonders.

Chunk 3

11 A character in Things Fall Apart remarks that the white man “has put a knife on the things that held us together, and we have fallen apart.” Are those things still severed, or have the wounds begun to heal?

12 What I was referring to there, or what the speaker in the novel was thinking about, was the upsetting of a society, the disturbing of a social order. The society of Umuofia, the village in Things Fall Apart, was totally disrupted by the coming of the European government, missionary Christianity, and so on. That was not a temporary disturbance; it was a once and for all alteration of their society. To give you the example of Nigeria, where the novel is set, the Igbo people had organized themselves in small units, in small towns and villages, each self-governed. With the coming of the British, Igbo land as a whole was incorporated into a totally different polity, to be called Nigeria, with a whole lot of other people with whom the Igbo people had not had direct contact before. The result of that was not something from which you could recover, really. You had to learn a totally new reality, and accommodate yourself to the demands of this new reality, which is the state called Nigeria. Various nationalities, each of which had its own independent life, were forced by the British to live with people of different customs and habits and priorities and religions. And then at independence, fifty years later, they were suddenly on their own again. They began all over again to learn the rules of independence. The problems that Nigeria is having today could be seen as resulting from this effort that was initiated by colonial rule to create a new nation. There’s nothing to indicate whether it will fail or succeed. It all depends.
One might hear someone say, How long will it take these people to get their act together? It's going to take a very, very long time, because it's really been a whole series of interruptions and disturbances, one step forward and two or three back. It has not been easy. One always wishes it had been easier. We've compounded things by our own mistakes, but it doesn't really help to pretend that we've had an easy task.

QUESTION 4

Chunk 4

In Home and Exile, you talk about the negative ways in which British authors such as Joseph Conrad and Joyce Cary portrayed Africans over the centuries. What purpose did that portrayal serve?

It was really a straightforward case of setting us up, as it were. The last four or five hundred years of European contact with Africa produced a body of literature that presented Africa in a very bad light and Africans in very lurid terms. The reason for this had to do with the need to justify the slave trade and slavery. The cruelties of this trade gradually began to trouble many people in Europe. Some people began to question it. But it was a profitable business, and so those who were engaged in it began to defend it—a lobby of people supporting it, justifying it, and excusing it. It was difficult to excuse and justify, and so the steps that were taken to justify it were rather extreme. You had people saying, for instance, that these people weren't really human, they're not like us. Or, that the slave trade was in fact a good thing for them, because the alternative to it was more brutal by far.

And therefore, describing this fate that the Africans would have had back home became the motive for the literature that was created about Africa. Even after the slave trade was abolished, in the nineteenth century, something like this literature continued, to serve the new imperialistic needs of Europe in relation to Africa. This continued until the Africans themselves, in the middle of the twentieth century, took into their own hands the telling of their story.

QUESTION 5

And that's what started with Things Fall Apart and other books written by Africans around the 1950s.

Yes, that's what it turned out to be. It was not actually clear to us at the time what we were doing. We were simply writing our story. But the bigger story of how these various accounts tie in, one with the other, is only now becoming clear. We realize and recognize that it's not just colonized people whose stories have been suppressed, but a whole range of people across the globe who have not spoken. It's not because they don't have something to say, it simply has to do with the division of power, because storytelling has to do with power. Those who win tell the story; those who are defeated are not heard. But that has to change. It's in the interest of everybody, including the winners, to know that there's another story. If you only hear one side of the story, you have no understanding at all.
The Author’s Perspective

QUESTION 6

Chunk 5

19 Do you see this balance of stories as likely to emerge in this era of globalization and the exporting of American culture?

20 That’s a real problem. The mindless absorption of American ideas, culture, and behavior around the world is not going to help this balance of stories, and it’s not going to help the world, either. People are limiting themselves to one view of the world that comes from somewhere else. That’s something that we have to battle with as we go along, both as writers and as citizens, because it’s not just in the literary or artistic arena that this is going to show itself. I think one can say this limiting isn’t going to be very healthy for the societies that abandon themselves.

QUESTION 7

21 In an Atlantic Unbound interview this past winter Nadine Gordimer said, “English is used by my fellow writers, blacks, who have been the most extreme victims of colonialism. They use it even though they have African languages to choose from. I think that once you’ve mastered a language it’s your own. It can be used against you, but you can free yourself and use it as black writers do—you can claim it and use it.” Do you agree with her?

22 Yes, I definitely do. English is something you spend your lifetime acquiring, so it would be foolish not to use it. Also, in the logic of colonization and decolonization it is actually a very powerful weapon in the fight to regain what was yours. English was the language of colonization itself. It is not simply something you use because you have it anyway; it is something which you can actively claim to use as an effective weapon, as a counterargument to colonization.

QUESTION 8

Chunk 6

23 There are those who say that media coverage of Africa is one-sided—that it focuses on the famines, social unrest, and political violence, and leaves out coverage of the organizations and countries that are working. Do you agree? If so, what effect does this skewed coverage have? Is it a continuation of the anti-Africa British literature you talk about in Home and Exile?

24 Yes, I do agree. I think the result has been to create a fatigue, whether it’s charity fatigue or fatigue toward being good to people who are less fortunate. I think that’s a pity. The reason for this concentration on the failings of Africans is the same as what we’ve been talking about—this tradition of bad news, or portraying Africa as a place that is different from the rest of the world, a place where humanity is really not recognizable. When people hear the word Africa, they have come to expect certain images to follow. If you see a good house in Lagos, Nigeria, it doesn’t quite fit the picture you have in your head, because you are looking for the slum—that is what the world expects journalists covering a city in Africa to come back with.
Now, if you are covering America, you are not focusing on slums every day of your life. You see a slum once in a while, maybe you talk about it, but the rest of the time you are talking about other things. It is that ability to see the complexity of a place that the world doesn't seem to be able to take to Africa, because of this baggage of centuries of reporting about Africa. The result is the world doesn't really know Africa. If you are an African or you live in Africa, this stands out very clearly to you, you are constantly being bombarded with bad news, and you know that there is good news in many places. This doesn't mean that the bad news doesn't exist, that's not what I'm saying. But it exists alongside other things. Africa is not simple—people want to simplify it. Africa is very complex. Very bad things go on—they should be covered—but there are also some good things.

This is something that comes with this imbalance of power that we've been talking about. The people who consume the news that comes back from the rest of the world are probably not really interested in hearing about something that is working. Those who have the ability to send crews out to bring back the news are in a position to determine what the image of the various places should be, because they have the resources to do it. Now, an African country doesn't have a television crew coming to America, for instance, and picking up the disastrous news. So America sends out wonderful images of its success, power, energy, and politics, and the world is bombarded in a very partial way by good news about the powerful and bad news about the less powerful.

You mentioned that literature was used to justify slavery and imperialism. What is this negative coverage of Africa being used to justify now?

It's going to be used to justify inaction, which is what this fatigue is all about. Why bother about Africa? Nothing works there, or nothing ever will work. There is a small minority of people who think that way, and they may be pushing this attitude. But even if nobody was pushing it, it would simply happen by itself. This is a case of sheer inertia, something that has been happening for a long time just goes on happening, unless something stops it. It becomes a habit of mind.

QUESTION 10

Has living here changed the way you think about Nigeria?

It must have, but this is not something you can weigh and measure. I've been struck, for instance, by the impressive way that political transition is managed in America. Nobody living here can miss that if you come from a place like Nigeria which is unable so far to manage political transitions in peace. I wish Nigeria would learn to do this. There are other things, of course, where you wish Americans would learn from Nigerians: the value of people as people, the almost complete absence of race as a factor in thought, in government. That's something that I really wish for America, because no day passes here without some racial factor coming up somewhere, which is a major burden on this country.
QUESTION 11

31 Could you talk about your dream, expressed in Home and Exile, of a “universal civilization”—a civilization that some believe we’ve achieved and others think we haven’t?

32 What the universal civilization I dream about would be, I really don’t know, but I know what it is not. It is not what is being presented today, which is clearly just European and American. A universal civilization is something that we will create. If we accept the thesis that it is desirable to do, then we will go and work on it and talk about it. We have not really talked about it. All those who are saying it’s there are really suggesting that it’s there by default—they are saying to us, let’s stop at this point and call what we have a universal civilization. I don’t think we want to swindle ourselves in that way; I think if we want a universal civilization, we should work to bring it about. And when it appears, I think we will know, because it will be different from anything we have now.

33 There may be cultures that may sadly have to go, because no one is rooting for them, but we should make the effort to prevent this. We have to hold this conversation, which is a conversation of stories, a conversation of languages, and see what happens.

Second Read

- Reread the interview to answer these text-dependent questions.
- Write any additional questions you have about the text in your Reader/Writer Notebook.

1. Key Ideas and Details: What notable contrast did Achebe recognize between Time magazine’s assessment of Joyce Cary’s novel Mister Johnson and his own assessment of the work?

2. Craft and Structure: Reread the third paragraph of this interview. What is the author’s purpose in discussing the book Mister Johnson before discussing Achebe’s novel Things Fall Apart? How does this purpose help you understand Achebe’s own purpose for writing his novel?
3. Key Ideas and Details: What details from the answer to Question 1 of the interview explain why Achebe’s work has “fit into the story of the world”?

4. Knowledge and Ideas: Achebe states that literature can make us identify with situations and people far away. Based on the evidence he cites in his response to Questions 1 and 2, is this claim valid?

5. Key Ideas and Details: How does Achebe feel about the changes made to Igbo society? What details in the text support this idea?

6. Craft and Structure: Achebe claims that the problems of Nigeria today may be traced to “this effort that was initiated by colonial rule to create a new nation.” What evidence does he use to support his claim? Cite particular sentences or phrases from the text.
7. Key Ideas and Details: According to Achebe, what is the relationship between storytelling and power? How does storytelling contribute to our understanding of the world?

8. Knowledge and Ideas: What claim does Achebe make about mastering the English language? Do you think that he gives enough evidence to prove this claim is valid?

9. Key Ideas and Details: How does Achebe contrast the media coverage of Africa with the coverage of places like America? What conclusion does he draw from the contrast?

10. Knowledge and Ideas: Achebe states that a “universal civilization” may be possible to achieve. He asserts, “A universal civilization will be something we will create.” Do you think that Achebe provides a sufficiently clear definition of “universal civilization” and how it may be achieved to prove his assertion?
Working from the Text

11. Use metacognitive markers as you read your assigned chunk of the interview with your group. Discuss your findings. Work together to complete the following chart. Be sure each person in the group takes notes so that each of you is prepared to present your findings to a new group.

12. Present your chunk of the interview to a group of students who read different chunks. Include your notes from the graphic organizer, your metacognitive markers, and your responses to the key questions. Work together with your new group to compose a list of additional questions you would like to ask Mr. Achebe.

Check Your Understanding

Reconsider the following proverb from the Unit Overview:
“Until the lion has a voice, stories of safaris will always glorify the hunter.”
How can you use this proverb to explain Chinua Achebe’s purpose in writing the novel Things Fall Apart? Do you think he was successful?
The Author’s Perspective

Writing to Sources: Explanatory Text

Consider the Essential Question for this unit: “How can an author use a fictional character to make a statement about culture?” Write an essay explaining your answer to this question. Be sure to:

• Begin with a clear statement of your idea.
• Use evidence from the novel and from the interview to develop and support your response.
• Use transition words to link your main ideas and clarify the relationships between them.
• Check your essay for subject-verb agreement.

Independent Reading Checkpoint

Review your independent reading. What have you learned about the colonial or postcolonial nation(s) that were described in your texts? Did the characters respond to colonization in ways you expected or didn’t expect? Review any idea notes you made. How can you use what you have learned as you read additional literature from colonial or postcolonial nations?
ASSIGNMENT
Your assignment is to write an analytical essay about Things Fall Apart in which you examine a character’s response to the cultural collision caused by the introduction of Western ideas into Ibo culture. In your essay, analyze how the collision challenges the character’s sense of identity, and explain how his or her response shapes the meaning of the work as a whole.

Planning and Prewriting: Take time to make a plan for your essay.
- Which characters had a strong positive or negative response to the cultural collision in the novel, and which one will you choose?
- What was this character’s sense of identity before encountering Western influence?
- What was this character’s response to the new culture: What did he or she do, think, or say; how did he or she interact with others; how did his or her role and/or perspective shift?
- What were the consequences of this character’s response and his or her willingness or unwillingness to change?
- What statement about culture is the author making through this fictional character, and how can you include this in your thesis?
- What textual support can you find for your thesis?
- How can you use an outline to plan the structure of your essay?

Drafting and Revising: Compose your literary analysis essay.
- How will you introduce your topic, organize your ideas, and provide a thoughtful conclusion?
- How will you integrate textual evidence including direct quotes from the novel?
- How will you be sure to use precise language and academic voice?
- How can you experiment with syntax and use a variety of sentence structures and transitions?

Editing and Publishing: Prepare a final draft for publication.
- How will you proofread and edit your essay for proper conventions of standard English capitalization, punctuation, spelling, grammar and usage?
- What tools are available for you to further polish and refine your work, such as a dictionary, thesaurus, spell-check, or grammar check?
- How can the Scoring Guide help you evaluate how well you have met the requirements of the assignment?

Reflection
After completing this Embedded Assessment, think about how you went about accomplishing this task, and respond to the following:
- How did your research on pre- and postcolonial Ibo culture help you understand your character’s reaction to the cultural collision?
- Why is it important to read literature written from the perspective of a culture other than your own?
